Fernie Will Build New Arena

Construction of a new Fernie arena will be commenced as soon as possible to replace the one destroyed by a $200,000 fire last week. The Fernie city council decided at a recent special meeting to hold an inquiry.

Meanwhile, RCMP at Fernie stated an inquiry will be held into the death of 19-year-old Dominic Ferrarelli, who died when he was trapped by flames in the Eastern British Columbia city sports arena.

RCMP and the city fire marshal have begun an investigation into the cause of the fire which destroyed an adjacent curling rink and coffee shop in addition to the arena.

The young athlete's body was found near the doorway of the building a few hours after the fire had been extinguished. It is believed he was trapped in the flames when he went back into the building to get his clothes. Police said Ferrarelli was among 15 hockey players who had been practising in the arena when the fire alarm was given.

Go Back For Clothes
He and four others went back into the building to get their clothes and belongings from a dressing room. Two others were injured in jumping through a window to escape.

A curler who entered the arena to look at a draw sheet is believed to have discovered the fire and given the alarm.

Mayor James White said, "The cause seems inexplicable. It could have been spontaneous combustion." If the fire had been smouldering for a time this could account for what seemed to be an explosion, he said. One witness said the fire seemed to start in one corner and "explode and engulf the entire building."

In announcing that construction of the new arena would start as soon as possible, city council set the target completion date at the beginning of the 1959-60 season.

Authority was given to engage a firm of consulting engineers to obtain recommendations and plans for the new building. The old arena was covered by insurance.

Arrange Games

In the meantime the Fernie Rangers hockey club, which lost its uniforms and equipment, has decided to complete its Alberta-British Columbia hockey league schedule. Offer of the use of Kimberley Dynamiter uniforms and equipment has been accepted.

The Fernie curling club also lost its club rooms, trophies and rocks.

C.N.P. Festival
March 23, 24, 25

Plans for the Crow's Nest Pass Musical Festival sponsored by the Blairmore Lions Club are progressing very favorably this week.

The cultural event will be held in the Elks hall in Blairmore on March 23, 24, and 25, and will be under the able chairmanship of L. D. Huntley and secretary, Don Thorburn.

It has been announced that the adjudicator this year will be the well-known Dr. G. Welton Marquis head of the department of music of the University of British Columbia.

Besides playing many instruments, including the piano, viola and trumpet, Dr. Marquis has also taught singing for a period of eight years. Dr. Marquis was the guest professor in musical history at the University of Oslo and was head of the Department of Music at the University of North Carolina and also holds a Ph.D. in musicology from the University of California.

Many entry forms for the local festival have been sent out and it is anticipated that the festival this year will again be the highly successful event it has been in past years.

United Church Leadership Training Class

Leadership Training class series was completed during February in the Coleman United Church. Mrs. B. Bond led the instruction on teaching methods. Film strips were used for instructional purposes also. The final session was an afternoon and evening session led by the Field Secretary for Christian Education in the United Church of Alberta, the Rev. George Young. He led discussions and demonstrations in group dynamics. This last day of the series took in teachers and leaders from the Pincher Creek, Blairmore and Bellevue churches.

A GOLDEN ANNIVERSARY

This is Red Cross Month, and we are reminded of the event by the many posters and flags carrying the familiar and traditional symbol of mercy.

It is interesting to note that this year the world will commemorate the 100th anniversary of the birth of the Red Cross idea, and at the same time we salute our Canadian Red Cross Society in its golden anniversary year.

The idea of an organization to give help to people of all creeds, colors and political beliefs was born on a battlefield in Solferino and was conceived in the mind of Henri Dunant a man destined to be recognized as a great humanitarian. The first practical application of his idea was demonstrated when he organized volunteers to care for the sick and wounded of both armies of that memorable battle in 1859.

Since through the century the principles at that time have been accepted and encouraged in 82 nations of the world. Today there are no boundaries in the Red Cross world and the long arm of mercy is always extended whenever and wherever people need help and understanding.

Here in Canada the Red Cross movement has had an outstanding growth and today it literally spans the nation with an active organization in more than 1200 Canadian communities in every province. It is recognized as the nation's largest voluntary organization with the support of millions of men, women and children.

This volunteer support has always been willingly given to the Red Cross by Canadians every-

Lions To Sponsor Bingo

Coleman Lions Club held a supper meeting last week when plans were discussed for the bingo night to be held in the Elks hall March 11 at 8 p.m.

For the occasion the Lions will put up a $100 cash jackpot prize to be won in a 54 number blackout and ten other cash prizes of $10 will be awarded.

Proceeds from the bingo nights are to be used for community purposes including the library playgrounds that the Lions are now building.

Further bingos will be held on April 5, May 6 and June 3.

During the meeting some discussion was held on the possibility of the Lions building a Scout hall for the local Boy Scouts. This matter is being taken up by the Lions who sponsor the Boy Scouts as a hall for scout meetings and functions in Coleman is not available for the Scouts as factors such as high rent make it impossible for the boys to rent a hall.

Lethbridge Kiwanis Pick Up Tab For Frank Krish Operation

The Willow Drive Community Association announced this week that the drive for funds for the Frank Krish heart operation will be continued by the Association and funds received will be turned over to the Lethbridge Kiwanis Easter Seal Campaign.

This is being done due to the fact that the Kiwanis Club announced last week that they would pick up the tab for the heart operation that Mr. Krish, a member of the Willow Drive Association, will have to undergo.

It was also learned that the surgery will now be performed in Edmonton rather than in Mayo Clinic. The Association have also pledged themselves to do their utmost to make the Lethbridge Kiwanis Easter Seal campaign a success.

Dr. Adler Delivers Address To Home & School

Despite cold weather an excellent attendance of 85 persons attended the Coleman Home and School Association meeting last week to hear Dr. Adler, chief medical officer of the Chinook Health Unit, give an interesting address.

Dr. Adler spoke on Mental Health, tracing the mental history disease up to the present day.

The speaker highlighted his address by showing films to enlarge on the theme and he also touched briefly on Teen-agers problems.

On concluding his much-appreciated address, Dr. Adler was given a hearty vote of thanks by president of the Home and School Association, Mrs. Mildred Zak.

Mrs. C. Coover's grade five class won the parent attendance prize for the third time with 20 parents present.

The next meeting of the Association will be held on March 16th, at which time members of the Coleman School Board will be present to answer questions and to acquaint the Home and School members with the duties and responsibilities of a school board.

Mrs. E. Krywolt, convener of the Hospitality committee, assisted by her helpers, served tea at the close of the meeting.

Board of Trade Hold Meeting

Coleman Board of Trade held its regular meeting last week when the board made a donation of $100 to assist the City of Fernie to rebuild its new arena. The former arena was totally razed by fire recently.

The board also made a donation of $50 to the Crow's Nest Pass band who are at present conducting an appeal for funds throughout the Pasm towns.

Coleman Juveniles Lose to High River

After defeating Taber and Medicine Hat in the first two rounds of the Alberta playoffs, Coleman Juveniles bowed out of the picture by losing the third round to High River, 6-5, in Coleman last Saturday night.

Because of a 4-4 tie in High River on Thursday, Saturday's game was a do-or-die battle for both teams in the total-point series.

By the end of the first period the score stood, High River 3, Coleman 0.

The central Alberta team extended their lead to 5-0 before Nick Maura pulled the High River goalie nicely, to put Coleman on the score board.

Our boys continued their uphill battle with successive goals by Reghanas and two by Searskel to climb within one point of High River.

One more goal by each team finished the scoring and gave the hard-skating High River boys the right to enter the next round of the playoffs.

It was a hard game to lose but it was not without thrills — one of the greatest being to see the Coleman boys fight back so very gamely.

A Check On Unscrupulousness

At this time of year, it is not unusual to hear remarks passed about persons who would rather draw their Unemployment Insurance Benefits than work. The implication is that there is no particular difficulty about doing so.

The fact is, however, that every person who is in receipt of benefits must declare, every time he receives money from the Unemployment Insurance Commission, that he is able, ready and willing to work. Moreover, anyone refusing an offer of suitable employment is likely to be disqualified from receipt of benefit.

In order, however, to test the sincerity (or insincerity) of a person's declaration that he is able, ready and willing to accept work, the U.I.C. must have a suitable job opening to which that person can be referred. Here is an area in which employers might well work more closely with the Commission.

The Commission's National Employment Service is designed specifically to find the right worker for the employer's job and the right job for the unemployed worker. Matching the worker to the job is a highly skilled occupation and the N.E.S. has the staff to be of great assistance to employer in this regard.

Incidental to providing this service to workers and employers, the Commission would be placed in a much better position to check on the availability for employment of claimants. Canada's Unemployment Insurance plan was created to help the unemployed through periods of genuine unemployment. We are all losers when those who are unscrupulous abuse the plan.

Effort To Reduce Transportation Cost Viscous Crude Oil

Cost of transporting Alberta viscous crude oil by pipeline may be substantially reduced as a result of studies being conducted by scientists of the Alberta Research Council and the University of Alberta Petroleum and Chemical Engineering Department.

Mathematical computation and analysis has shown that water, if introduced into a viscous oil pipeline, forms a moving layer between the oil and the pipe wall thus reducing the power required to pump the oil through the line.

An appreciable amount of crude oil produced in Alberta is very viscous and tends to adhere to the pipe wall. As a result its transportation by pipeline from production regions to refineries requires much pumping power at a relatively high cost.

Pilot model tests currently being conducted show that the water, with a relatively low viscosity occupies the region of maximum frictional resistance at the pipe wall. Oil transported by this process may be considered to be flowing in a moving pipe of water, or in a "lubricated" pipe.

The project has attracted considerable international interest among those concerned with the transportation of heavy viscous crude oil. T.W.F. Russell and M.E. Charles of the Research Council staff have recently published a theoretical paper on the subject in the Canadian Journal of Chemical Engineering. At the same time another paper was published describing experimental pipeline work done in co-operation with G. W. Govier of the University.

Data gained during the experiments thus may be of assistance to industrialists interested in the transportation of coal and other solids in fluid flow.

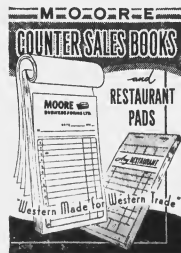

Further tests with the small-scale pipeline may be followed by field tests in co-operation with an operating pipeline company.

I sneezed a sneeze into the air, It fell to earth I know not where. But hard and froze were the looks of those In whose vicinity I sneeze.

The Canadian Red Cross and the American Red Cross have a mutual agreement to supply free blood to tourists who may require blood transfusions while visiting in their neighboring nation.

Of Many Thingse

(By Ambrose Hills)

No Help, Please!
I get a kick out of the story my friend Hank Larson tells.
He was in the city visiting relatives. Walking down a main avenue, he gawked at tall buildings and stubbed his toe on a curb. He was not badly hurt.
"But, heck," says he, "a social worker was walking by and saw me. Guess she'd just taken a course in first aid. She pounced on me and went to work. A few others in, and the first thing I knew I was trussed up like a Thanksgiving turkey and whisked away in an ambulance. Missed my bus home; got accused by friends of being drunk and disorderly, and had to pay $16 for ambulance and intern service . . . all for a stubbed toe! I'm not going to the city no more; they're too darned helpful!"

Hank probably exaggerated the story, but it's a fact that we're often in real deep trouble when a bunch of well-meaning folk set out to help us.

Lately there's been a terrific amount of talk about "helping small business." The government wants to help small business.

Farm organizations worry about the plight of small business.
Speech makers like to talk about helping small business. About the only people not shouting for help are — the owners of small business. Fact is, they're scared stiff they're going to be pounced on and "helped" about the same way Hank Larson got "helped".

One small business man wrote to a trade magazine about the same thing. "Far from being a delicate organism," he wrote, "that requires planners to watch out for its welfare, small business is a bawdy social institution capable of such quick adaptation to new situations that it would be difficult to stamp it out. But planners insist that small business can't compete with big business. If big business could react to situations as quickly as the average small business, there might be some logic in such a contention. But so far, big business has not developed this capability. In our small company, we frequently accept, manufacture and ship an item in less time than it would take some large company to get the paper work well under way . . . more than one small business has become a big business by this route. So, as one small business man, I say "Thank you, Uncle, for your offers of special aid and assistance — but we and the public will be better off without it. We can meet changing conditions with surprising agility and some acumen. We aren't too certain we could survive with too much help."

1958 Campaign Short Of Goal

A shortage of $49,171 in the 1958 Red Cross campaign is shown in the annual report of Mr. F. E. Spooner, campaign chairman for the Alberta division C.R.C.S. Objective of the 1958 appeal was $539,707 of which $490,526 was collected up to Dec. 31.

Commenting on failure to reach the 1958 quota Mr. Spooner cited fear of depression in urban centres, financial conditions in rural areas and growing public indignation at the increasing number of campaigns as major issues contributing to the shortage.

He lauded the sincere efforts of Red Cross campaign workers whom he stated "put forth their best efforts with a sincere desire to reach the quotas assigned to them."

With a lower quota of $510,500 for the 1959 appeal branch members were urged to make an immediate start in organizing their campaign and Mr. Spooner expressed confidence that with proper organization and complete coverage of every prospect the objective could be reached and exceeded.
